

Contents

On the Cover

Photo by Jerry Penry

Abandoned railroads have been problematic for surveyors for many years while retracing boundary surveys.

Features

- 12 The Receding Railroads
In addition to disappearing evidence, safety requirements are making it difficult for surveyors to gain access to rights-of-way.
By Jerry Penry, LS
- 31 Flood Modeling with FEMA's HAZUS-MH MR3 Software
Ohio students at the University of Akron's Summit College use the latest FEMA flood disaster impact software and ArcInfo to create attractive and useful disaster planning maps.
By Larry C. Shubat, MS, GISP
- 45 Fresh Boundaries Bring Hope to Bugala
A Missouri surveyor lends his skills to a unique project involving surveying, engineering and planning for an orphanage in Uganda.
By Adam Teale, LS
- 52 From Service Station to Reference Station
Challenged by a heavily-canopied office setting, an Alabama firm finds a creative and convenient location to house its CORS base station equipment.
By Larry Trojak

Departments

- 21 The WOW Factor: TDS Nomad
Tripod Data Systems takes advantage of the latest in mobile communications.
- 22 Conference Review: SPAR 2008
The fifth annual laser scanning conference builds on previous events as critical mass approaches.
By Angus Stocking, LS
- 66 Field Notes: Oh, What Crooked Footsteps We Follow
A California surveyor sheds light on some troubling twists.
By John P. Wilusz, LS, PE
- 58 Equipment Review: ProMark3 RTK from Magellan Professional
This value-priced, entry-level GNSS system provides capable positioning.
By Shawn Billings, LS
- 71 Survey Reports: Preparing a Survey Report: Service Limitations (Part 3)
Our series continues with an examination of contractual limits.
By Knud E. Hermansen, PhD, LS, JD

In This Issue

- 6 Editor's Corner: Carlson Software: It's All About Providing Choice
By Marc Cheves, LS
- 10 Point to Point: Our Niche of the Law
By Joel Leininger, LS
- 80 Vantage Point: Land Ethics
By Wendy Lathrop, LS, CFM
- 75 Advertisers' Directory
- 76 MarketPlace