

Contents

On the Cover

Artist's conception of one of thousands of drift bottles released by the Coast & Geodetic Survey to determine ocean currents.

Features

- 10 Message in a Bottle – Measuring the Ocean Currents
Of critical importance to early-day mariners, knowledge of ocean currents meant shorter crossings. Even Ben Franklin had an interest.
By Jerry Penry, LS
- 18 Jerusalem's Temple Mount – Historic Preservation with 3D Laser Scanning
Modern technology provides no-touch information about suspected movement in this highly visible wall.
By Bruce Jenkins
- 26 FARO Technologies
The “new kid on the block” in scanning relies on German manufacturing know-how and scanning experience to enter the American market.
By Marc Cheves, LS
- 62 Dial 811 Before You Dig
Even though each state has its own one-call system, this new national system will help to alleviate “underground incidents.”
By Scott Landes

Departments

- 8 Surveyors Report: Interesting Times Ahead
Measurement and positioning technology is having a profound impact on surveyors.
By Joseph W. Betit, LS
- 22 Industry Insider: Bryn Fosburgh, Vice President, Engineering & Construction Segment, Trimble
A surveyor with a long history in our industry recalls the many mentors who helped to shape his career.
By Marc Cheves, LS
- 38 RTN 101: Reference Station Communications (Part 5)
Connecting the base station antenna and the server.
By Gavin Schrock, LS
- 46 Conference Review: Agents of Change (Autodesk UC 2006)
A surveyor's perspective on the recent Autodesk User Conference.
By Angus W. Stocking, LS

In This Issue

- 4 Editorial: Celebrating Our Profession
By Marc Cheves, LS
- 6 Point to Point: Topography is Dead; Long Live Topography
By Joel Leminger, LS
- 58 Product Review: Yankee Ingenuity: Economy + Efficiency = The Right Equipment
By David L. Laferriere, LS
- 72 Vantage Point: A New Twist in Eminent Domain
By Wendy Lathrop, LS, CFM
- 66 Advertisers' Directory
- 67 MarketPlace