

Contents

On the Cover

10
James Brown of Cinquini & Passarino (Santa Rosa, CA) uses the Amberg GRP to gather track geometry for the Sonoma-Marin Area Rail Transit project.

43

64

Features

10 SMART Surveying

As rail expansion continues to grow nationwide, opportunities for surveyors to expand services into this huge vertical market are right on track.

By Angus W. Stocking, LS

20 Ashtech Comes Full Circle

We caught up with François Erceau, Vice President and General Manager of Ashtech, to get a first-hand report of what lies in store for this venerable GNSS manufacturer.

By Marc Cheves, LS

24 Whose Footsteps Are They?

The goal of any resurvey or retracement is to find and perpetuate the corners in their original position.

By Christopher M. Wickern PLS, RLS, CFedS

28 The Birthplace of VRS

Take an exclusive peek into the surveying “think-tank” that developed VRS, and meet some of the players on the team responsible for its evolution and other innovations.

By Gavin Schrock, LS

43 Infected with Surveying

Born to the breed, and determined at one point not to follow in his father’s footsteps, Dick Elgin’s life as a surveyor, soldier, business owner and professor has been one remarkable ride.

By Marc Cheves, LS

64 Network News

Nearly a decade after their first RTN station, Earl Dudley, Inc. is seeing a lot of new converts to the technology.

By Larry Trojak

In This Issue

6 Editor’s Corner: SPAR 2010
By Marc Cheves, LS

55 Vantage Point: Ripple Effects Above and Below
By Wendy Lathrop, LS, CFM

52 FeedBack

58 Advertisers’ Directory

59 MarketPlace